MADDUX CREATIVE

Directors Scott Maddux and Jo leGleud are completely joyful people to encounter. One can imagine their clients are drawn to this vibe and find it infectious. Their take on modernity is one of richness – from the fabrics and colours they use, to their clever commissioning of specialist decorative artists and their choice of vintage or artisanal oddities. Expect an element of the unexpected with this pair and you will not be disappointed. madduxcreative.com

LEFT Maddux Creative excels at expressive, playful interiors that are rich in quirky details. BELOW Max Rollitt has a talent for creating rooms that have a layered sense of history

MARTIN BRUDNIZKI DESIGN STUDIO

More is more in Martin Brudnizki's world. His interiors – restaurants, hotels and members' clubs, notably Annabel's – are social media hits. His schemes may be grand and glamorous, but clever layering tricks ensure a degree of comfort that makes every space feel like home. Martin believes rooms should bring us joy and achieves this aim with aplomb. mbds.com

MARTIN HULBERT DESIGN

Headed up by its eponymous founder and Jay Grierson, this London design studio is perhaps best known for its hotels, including The Grove in Hertfordshire and Coworth Park in Berkshire. The team also works on residential projects, creating interiors with a similarly elegant and soft aesthetic that suits a townhouse just as well as a haven on Corfu. martinhulbertdesign.com

MAX ROLLITT

An antique dealer for nearly 30 years, Max Rollitt runs an interior design business alongside his Hampshire showroom and also designs a highly covetable collection of furniture. He is a master of creating rooms that have a sense of history and that feel as if they have come together over generations. Far from being stuffy or formal, these are interiors suffused with a lively sense of humour. As in all the best houses, there is always something unexpected to look at. maxrollitt.com
