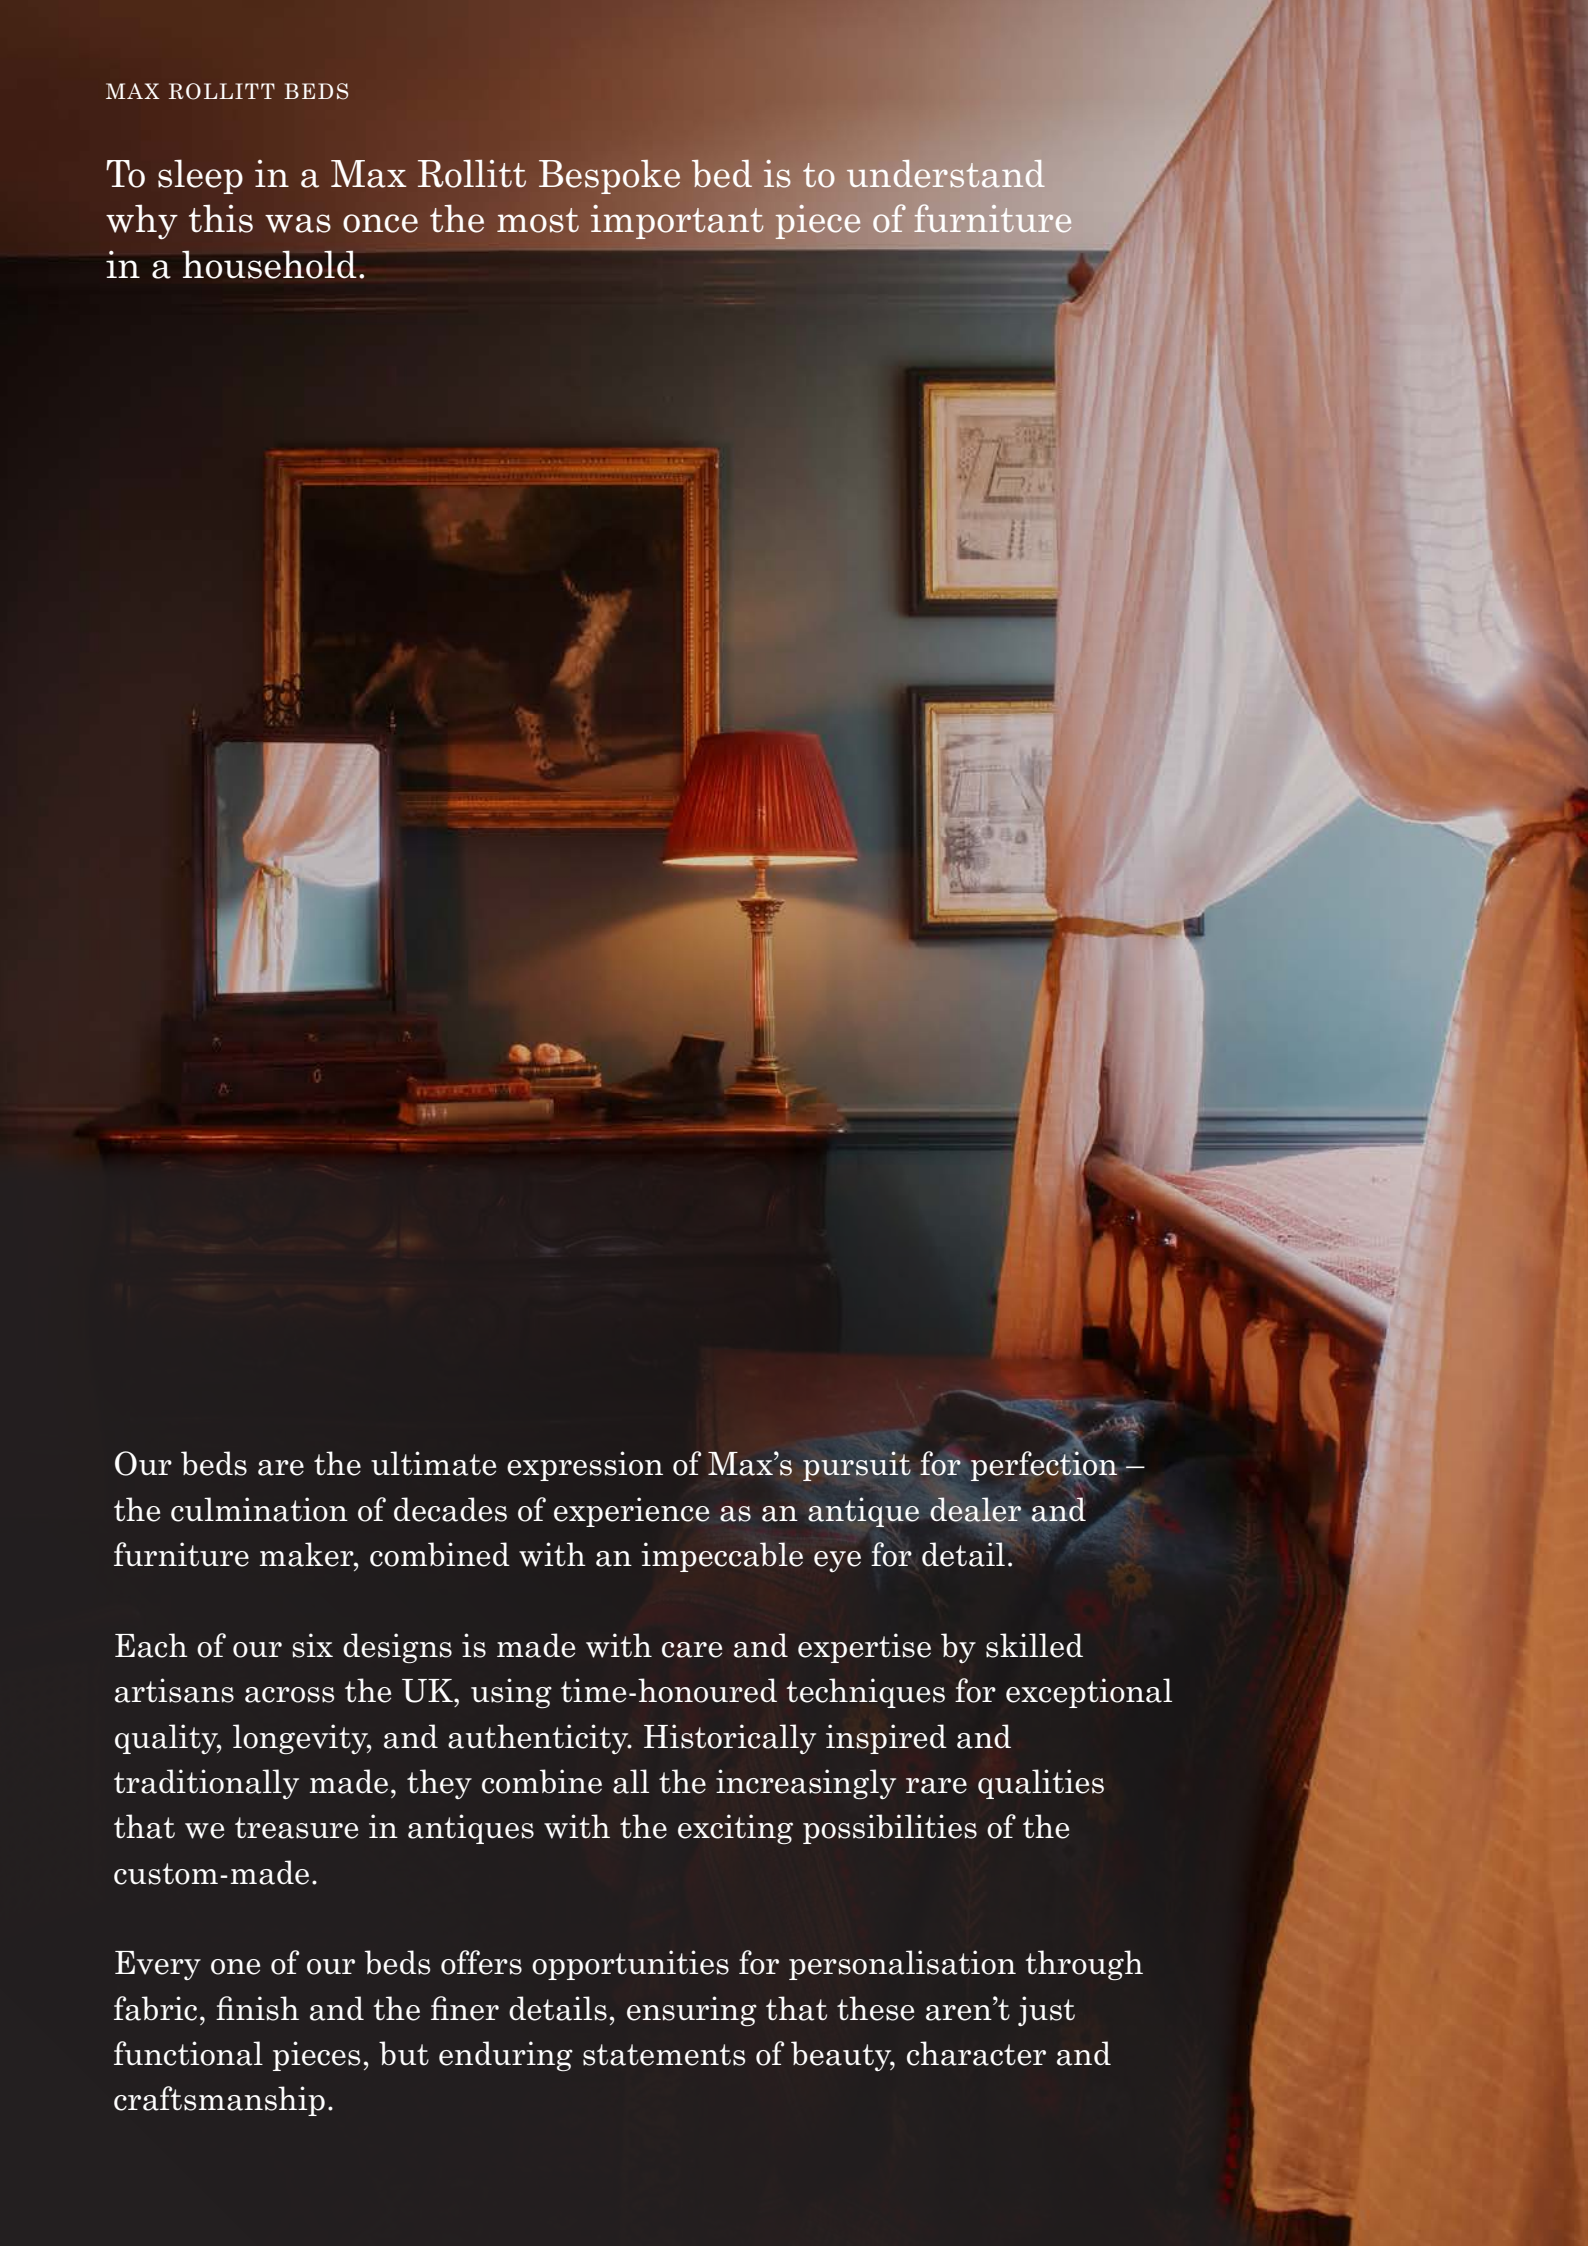
BEDS

To sleep in a Max Rollitt Bespoke bed is to understand why this was once the most important piece of furniture in a household.



Our beds are the ultimate expression of Max's pursuit for perfection – the culmination of decades of experience as an antique dealer and furniture maker, combined with an impeccable eye for detail.

Each of our six designs is made with care and expertise by skilled artisans across the UK, using time-honoured techniques for exceptional quality, longevity, and authenticity. Historically inspired and traditionally made, they combine all the increasingly rare qualities that we treasure in antiques with the exciting possibilities of the custom-made.

Every one of our beds offers opportunities for personalisation through fabric, finish and the finer details, ensuring that these aren't just functional pieces, but enduring statements of beauty, character and craftsmanship.

Inspired by the clean lines and craftsmanship of the Shaker movement, the New Gloucester's restrained form captures the essence of early-nineteenth century design.

Chamberlayne Bed

The Chamberlayne Bed is based on an impressive antique four-poster bed that Max bought in 1998 at the Sotheby's house sale that followed the dispersal of the estate of The Chamberlayne Family of Stoneythorpe Hall, Warwickshire.

Campaign Bed

The Campaign Bed was inspired by a military campaign bed made by the specialist maker Thomas Butler, who was working in the late-eighteenth and early-nineteenth centuries. The cornice has been adapted and is made from brass, which can be left exposed or upholstered to create an elegant, enclosed space.

"It's the theatre of four-poster beds that draws you in, even undressed with just a simple frame and cornice – they're just glorious."

Based on a simple yet elegant bed from Goa, India, that Max admired while s taying with friends, the Bala Bed works beautifully both pared back to showcase the handcrafted wooden frame or draped with a sheer canopy.

Devonshire Bed

The Devonshire Bed was born out of Lot 233 from the 2010 Sotheby's sale, 'Chatsworth: The Attic': "A massive George III carved mahogany bed post, circa 1770". Having placed the winning bid for this single, 10-foot tall bed post, Max admits it was as much a souvenir as it was potential inspiration. Scaled down considerably, though, and its turned vase stem supporting a stop-fluted column is reimagined in the front posts of the Devonshire Bed.

Pembroke Bed

The first iteration of the Pembroke Bed was made for an interiors project; one of the guest bedrooms was in the eaves of the seventeenth-century farmhouse, so there wasn't the height for a four-poster, but Max still wanted the bed to have a sense of presence.
